

MARCH DINNER MEETING
Tuesday March 25, 2003

The Future of Testing and QA
Richard Bornet, Enterprise Software Testing Systems

A recent survey of QA professionals found that almost 90% believe that the way QA and Testing is done will change in the next decade. The question is how? This presentation will be an attempt to look into the future and predict some of the changes that probably will take place. The presentation will look at:

- How Return on Investment will drive IT.
- How new strategies in development will affect testing.
- Advances in Test Automation.
- How Web Services will change testing.
- New paradigms for testing.
- A changing role for QA.

The changes that will be described will affect all of IT throughout the whole software development cycle. This presentation will, therefore be of interest to QA professionals, Developers, and IT Managers

This is a topic, which is of primary importance to all people involved in Quality Assurance and development. So come and hear a very lively, interesting and thought provoking presentation.

Richard Bornet is the president of Enterprise Software Testing Systems. He is the developer of Scenario Tester, a tool to empower and organize testers who use test automation. Richard has been involved in QA for the past 25 years. He has set-up and run QA departments testing many mission critical applications. Richard has a special interest in looking at innovation and the future. He has taught extensively about the future and future trends.
